Novi wedding forum gives brides and grooms-to-be ideas

Thursday, April 04, 2013

This weekend, Sunday, April 7, The Baronette Renaissance will host a wedding forum, an event that will leave the betrothed couple with knowledge and ideas on how to plan their big day.

Hosted by The Baronette Renaissance in Novi, “Before You ‘I Do”” is presented by All About You Productions, which describes the event as “not a bridal expo,” in that both brides- and grooms-to-be are welcomed, along with the entire wedding party, parents of the couple and anyone else involved in the planning.

Specifically chosen vendors will be set up, representing different aspects and categories involved in the wedding to offer tips, tricks and up-to-date trends as well as ways to save money without skimping on quality.

The vendors will be composed of local wedding professional, each proficient in their chosen area of wedding planning and organizing.

Space for the event will be limited. Online registration can be found at B4UIDo.com for $5, or there will be tickets available at the door for $10.

“Before You ‘I Do”” begins at 1 p.m. Sunday and will run until 4 p.m. at The Baronette Renaissance, 27790 Novi Road (just north of 696) in Novi.
